WHAT YOU'LL NEED

- A Patreon creator page

STEP BY STEP 0 / 6 DONE

1. Easiest: press Sign in
   In the PawPoller desktop app, press Sign in beside Patreon and sign in in the window that opens. On a server or seat, press Sign in with the PawPoller app and follow the code on screen. Then you can skip the rest of these steps. ☐

2. Add Patreon
   On the Accounts page, add a Patreon account. Type your page name: the part after `patreon.com/` in your page's address. ☐

3. Sign in
   Press 🔑 Sign in. Patreon's own sign-in page opens. Sign in there and the window closes by itself. ☐

4. Check it's your page
   PawPoller checks the page you signed in to has the name you typed. If it doesn't, nothing is saved and you are told which page it found. ☐

5. Pick who sees each piece
   When you post a piece, tick Patreon, open its Override, and pick who can see it: your Patreon default, everyone, all paying members, or only the tiers you tick. ☐

6. Choose the rest (optional)
   In the same place you can put the pictures in the gallery or in the text of the post, add a caption under the main picture, and, for General artwork, let Patreon publish it at a set time or pick a date it becomes public. ☐

GOOD TO KNOW

- Patreon takes General and Mature work from PawPoller. Mature work can only go to paid tiers. Adult work is not sent to Patreon.
- The title, tags and cover of a post are public on Patreon whatever the tier, so pick a cover without nudity.
- Your supporters are shown as totals only: how many, per tier, and the money Patreon shows you. PawPoller never stores who they are.
- Patreon shows no view counts, so PawPoller tracks likes and comments. New comments arrive in your Inbox.
- Lists, quotes, links, underlining and dividers in your text keep their look on Patreon. The alt text you gave a General piece goes with each picture.
- If you let Patreon publish a post at a set time, change or cancel it on Patreon: PawPoller has handed it over.
- PawPoller sends Patreon posts one at a time, about a minute and a half apart, so a batch takes a while.
- Patreon support is new and still being tested on real pages.
